Economic News

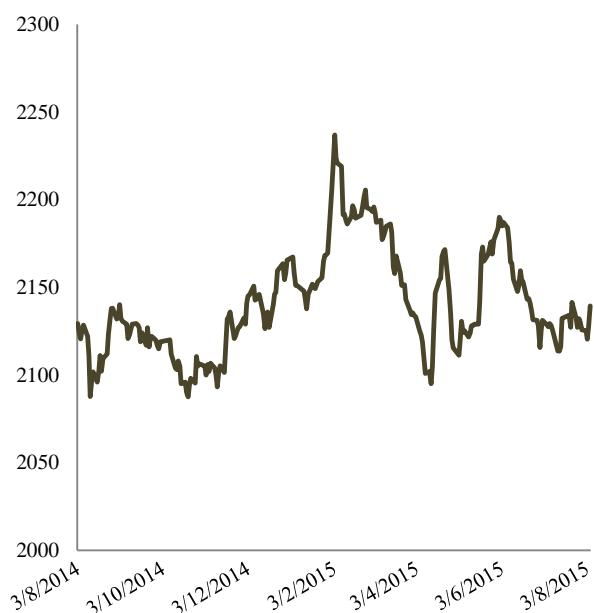

- Investment commission tells investors it is working on cutting red tape

The Jordan Investment Commission (JIC) is working with official agencies on delegating authority to their representatives at the commission's "investment window", JIC President Montaser Oqlah said Wednesday. At a meeting with local and Arab investors, Oqlah promised further facilitations for investors and their employees concerning residence and visas, as well as issuing and renewing investor cards, which allow them further freedom of movement. He added that Prime Minister Abdullah Ensour is "following up closely" with the JIC on the commitment of concerned officials to the outcomes of a recent meeting, where they pledged a "quick response" to the issues raised. Ensour on Monday met with the ministerial economic development committee and stakeholders representing ministries and institutions concerned with investment to discuss facilitating procedures for investors and cutting red tape.

- Medical premiums represent 27.1% of total insurance in Jordan

Total medical insurance premiums reached JD141.7 million last year, representing 27.1 per cent of total insurance premiums, data from the Ministry of Industry, Trade and Supply showed Wednesday. According to a ministry statement sent to The Jordan Times, last year's figure was 10 per cent higher than the JD128.6 million registered in 2013. Arab Orient Insurance Company accounted for 37 per cent of the 2014 total medical premiums.
