King says Jordan among countries best equipped to reopen tourism sector

His Majesty King Abdullah on Monday stressed the importance of investing in the tourism sector, noting efforts under way to attract investors to establish tourist-related projects in Jordan. During a meeting attended by HRH Crown Prince Hussein with heads of divisions at the Royal Department for Environment Protection and Tourism at Mount Nebo in Madaba Governorate, King Abdullah said investing in tourism and the environment requires providing a suitable ecosystem, according to a Royal Court statement.

'New JRP requires $200m through mid-June'

Data from the Ministry of Planning and International Cooperation has shown that the volume of funding required for the Jordan Response Plan for the Syrian crisis for the years 2020-2022 through mid-June of this year amounts to $200 million. Grants have been distributed among the components of the plan, the first of which is the electronic system, which amounts to around $121.7 million, the Jordan News Agency, Petra, reported. The second component is the additional financing item totalling $72 million, while the bilateral agreements item stands at $7 million.

Clothing sector faces around JD54m in losses

A representative of the clothing sector has demanded that the government reduce the sales tax in the sector from 16 to 8 per cent, especially as the sector is among those hard-hit by the coronavirus crisis. "The clothing and footwear sector has been categorised as one of those most severely impacted during the pandemic, and it requires true support," Asaad Qawasmi, a representative of the clothing, garment and jewellery sector at the Jordan Chamber of Commerce, told The Jordan Times on Monday. Qawasmi demanded the issuance of a defence order to resolve financial disputes between landlords and renters instead of leaving them for the judiciary, noting that otherwise, many problems will arise in the coming period. A defence order, he stressed, would preserve the relationship between tenants and landlords.
